What are we doing here, you ask? Well, we're scanning the local area. Now, everyone is familiar with the local wireless access points. But what many people are not aware of, are the devices that have the ability to create a bridge between these devices, and create a strong point-to-point connection. The EnGenius® ECB3500 has this ability with the EAP3660. The EnGenius® EOC1650 is actually a universal repeater (for wireless) with the ability to create a bridge as well. The EnGenius®

EOC5610 is the newest addition to the group which has the ability to create bridges, repeaters, and access points. There's a vast majority of people out there, who, when living in a house they purchased, did not realize that there was a bridge or repeater there. We see some people create a network bridge, that only they can use. With EnGenius® Locator, the user gets to see what their neighborhood is, and is able to scan it in their area. Once they find the devices that they wish to scan, they will see the device, its name, the system MAC address, the type of device, and a brief description of what it is. From there, they may be able to change the IP address, whether its DMZ or not, and even change its MAC address if they need to. They can also reset the device to its factory
